Below is a sample letter:

Your company recently announced your new "Legalize Love" campaign. You stated that Google is "proud to be recognized as a leader in LGBT inclusion efforts."

Why? Google is a company that has excelled at what it has set out to accomplish. You have made many successful products that do not discriminate against any colors, creeds, or "sexual orientations."

Why does a successful internet company like yours - which has nothing to do with cultural standards - suddenly feel the need to impose your values on your customers who may not agree with you on such a controversial issue as homosexuality? For that matter, what gives you, a technology company, the right to tell people what's right and wrong?

Please, just make your product and stay out of the culture war.

Hello Mr. Johnson,

Greetings in Jesus' Name! Thank you for your ministry.

Yes, our family is very concerned about the magazines at the check-out lines and have taught our children to look away and guard their eyes. However, this is still very fkh Lewnv0 Yg jcxg urqmgp vq ocpigtu qh stores, but this doesn't help much. We have found that at Walmart, we go to the lawn and garden check-out where there are no ocic|kpgu0 Cv qvjgt uvqtgu {qw oc{ Lpf aisles that do not have magazines, or, we just have our children quickly walk through the aisle and wait on the other side.

Thank you for working so hard for decency in America! I w {vqp. I C

My friends and I as teens, would turn those magazines around so people couldn't see the covers. I still do that if my son is with me.

Tgurqpug%5<

I care! Whenever I see what I consider an offensive magazine cover, I notify management. They just about always agree with me and pull the magazine. They just need people to speak up!

In your last Email newsletter about Indecency at checkout lines, you mentioned how maybe that email would give those of us who DO care encouragement. I wanted to reply and say that your E-mail did in fact lift my spirits. It was encouraging! I loved reading about your wife, Jan standing up to places like Wal-Mart and speaking up. That was a major encouragement for me because I do the same thing. I have been on Wal-Mart's case for over a year. I had an E-mail just last year from them telling me to rest assured that they will have those covers over explicit magazines at the checkout—a lie because it never happened. I'm from Georgia, Trenton to be exact. So our closest Wal-Mart is in Chattanooga and they have never put covers over the trashy magazines. My grandmother works at our other Wal-Mart in Chattanooga and she once said that they had so many complaints about the xwnict ocic|kpgu vjcv vjg ocpigt Lpcmf done away with the ones like Maxim. That was a big inspiration for me too because it often feels so hopeless. I'm 22

[editor's note: This was such a powerful email. Thank you dear friend!]

Tgurqpug%7<

I have to say that the area I am in now (we moved) is very liberal, not family friendly. I have had a hard time getting much accomplished. One manager lied to me saying he would remove them but they were back up the next week, I checked. It was the Sports Illustrated swimsuit magazine. I confronted him and asked why they were back up. He blamed the owner. I said well, it seems I was lied to, and I reiterated my position if they carried it I would boycott them for a year. I said that just lost you far oqtg vjcp ectt {kpi vjg ocic|kpg rtqLvqf you. I will boycott your store for 1 year. That was 2 years ago and I rarely do [shop] there now. Maybe I am not really trying hard enough. Not PRAYING enough about it lately. I have as of late just not looked, trying to shield my own eyes. Who will be the David and protect the others? We cannot just turn a blind eye. If we do not voice our concern how will they know? Thank you for the reminder of being ever diligent in this area. """"V0J0

Mail Bag

Hi, Bill, it isn't just Cosmo that is so offensive anymore, have you noticed? Even the old standard "womens' magazines" like Good Housekeeping, Redbook, etc. have more and more tantalizing "subjects" on the cover. No, not photos but the titles on some shock me! I just hate it when I have my grandchildren with me and we are dqodctfgf"ykvj"vjku"Lmvj0"[gu."K"jcxg"urqmgp" to managers and some are very nice and make changes but some (many, I am sad to say) tell me they have no control over what is placed at the checkstand "corporate mandated it." I just wonder if that is true but at least I let my voice be heard and that has to count somewhere. I can tell you that many of the cashiers feel the same way as I do! So we are not alone but on some days, it certainly feels that way. I am praying for your ministry and I know you will always stand for truth, honesty and morality. There are way too few "Christian" organizations that do. They say nothing. Sad, isn't it?

In His Love,

Just wanted you to know that I appreciate all that you do letting people know about what television networks are constantly putting on TV, and all the things going on in our nation. I check your site out daily, and I repost your information to my blog, so others will be aware, and can take action for causes, and be aware to boycott stores that go against God's laws. Although k" ecppqv" Lpcpekcmf" uwrrqtv" {qwt" ecwug" right now, maybe by making others aware of your site, others may come to your site, and can help in some way. Do you have/know of "voter guides" that can be distributed in our church?

I0U0

Thank you for providing this. We heard some very disturbing info, but was also very inspiring. We have to do something!

Very helpful & inspiring. - E0U0

Thank you for all that you do to draw us into a closer relationship with our Lord Jesus Christ.

Mr. Bowers' presentation was a real eye-opener - a sad one.
