

Everybody Hates Trump?

By Bill Johnson

Everybody hates Trump? If you listen to CNN, MSNBC, ABC, NBC, CBS and/or read mainstream media such as the Detroit Free Press, the New York Times, the Washington Post, you would think this to be the case.

Yet as President Trump descends from the skies on Air Force One whether in large or rather smallish cities, his rallies are filled with massive crowds. He is met with high levels of enthusiasm - audiences arriving early to get as close as possible! Clearly, he is loved and regarded by millions with more fervor than any other president in our lifetime, if not in U.S. history.

Yet he is disliked, if not detested and hated, by millions. This is abundantly clear as we see even loved ones and close friends who can't stand the man. Did they have that level of angst against Obama, Clinton, George H. or W. Bush? Isn't there ample reason to hold each of these aforementioned in equal disdain as you consider their damaging policies - policies that even at the time should have been seen as undermining America. Obama and his 1.5 billion dollar gift to Iran delivered in cash on a secretive late night plane flight. George W. Bush and his duplicity as he paved the way for the Muslim Brotherhood to occupy high places in his administration leading to the purge of national security training manuals and expert trainers - watchmen on the wall, who were savvy, caring, protectors from the likes of our enemies: Shariah Supremacists. Clinton as he wined and dined the Chinese with overnight stays in the Lincoln bedroom leading to years of Chinese dollars by the millions/billions flowing into the Clinton Foundation (quid pro quo) as doors of opportunity "miraculously" opened for China at the expense of the United States, leading to China's technology and military advancements at lightning speed so that China now is not only on equal footing, but is ahead militarily as they have been "allowed" to steal our military and technology secrets.

And, Joe Biden? If one of the presidential candidates (and one of them has - Joe Biden) declared that he will place members of the Muslim Brotherhood in key positions in his White House, don't you that there should be of great CONCERN? As you know, Muslim Brotherhood proponents declare death to the infidel (if you aren't a Shariah adherent you are an infidel - you and me and our loved ones).

I think of those of us who had a father or grandfather, veterans of World War II, who fought on European soil. I think of those of us who were blessed to have them parent us. Taking us "hand in hand" to patriotic parades as the Veterans marched and high school bands played songs honoring the living and the dead with flags waving and young and old alike applauding these men and women who gave themselves for us that we would not live under tyranny, but in freedom.

How can these who had such an upbringing, not recognize the agenda of people like Rashida Tlaib, Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, Keith Ellison and Ilhan Omar? Do they think they desire to uphold their oath to the U.S. Constitution? In addition, as just one other example, former Vice President Biden is seen and heard on video stating that China poses no threat to America. It's all about relationship, he says, and under his administration their relationship will continue to flourish. China, by nearly all accounts, is America's greatest threat in the world largely due to the quid pro quo of Presidents Clinton and Obama.

So, these loved ones and friends hate Trump because he's a "blow hard," he's a braggard. Are they against him for the promises he made and kept? Are they against him building nearly 400 miles of border walls attempting to safeguard America from illegal immigrants, some of which come as enemies of the United States? Have they not seen what happens when countries such as Germany and Britain and France are overwhelmed by illegal enemies? Or is this unbeknownst to them as their mainstream news stations censor out such eye-opening news accounts? That same media turns a blind eye as leftist mayors and governors (with communist/socialist ties) defund their police and allowing the law breakers (BLM and Antifa) to get away with riots, burnings, attacks, maiming, murdering, destroying stores and small businesses.

I return to question, how can it be that kids (and now adults) that we in some cases grew up with, are now so staunchly in opposition to what their forebearers stood for and what President Trump is fighting for? Donald Trump is the most pro-life president we've ever had. He protects the borders, working to protect the citizenry from violent criminals and illegal drugs pouring into America. He derailed the Obama Nuclear Iran deal (JCPOA). He disassociated the United States from the Paris Accords, a leftist agenda dealing with climate change which would decimate our energy industry, while imposing no real obligations on the world's leading polluters. After working with sensitivity and caution with China and its President Xi Jinping desiring to work together for peace, mutual prosperity and well-being, Trump held them accountable when China did not hold up their end of the bargain, neither the trade agreements nor discontinuing China's practice of cyber warfare, stealing billions of dollars of corporate and military secrets. Trump's strategies are a breath of fresh air after years of leadership that engaged in financial corruption. Is Trump hated because he believes that if our Constitution continues to be maligned and trampled that America's days of freedom are sinking sand? His strong efforts to only nominate originalists, strict constructionist judges who stay within the bounds of the law – our brilliantly and Providentially constructed U.S. Constitution, arguably the greatest governmental document ever written.

Due to time and space limitations, let me try to sum it up as best as I can this way. Trump has enemies. An oft spoken word is that we are known by our enemies: We know that Trump is disparaged, ridiculed, and demeaned by Hollywood, mainstream media, academia, the vast majority of professional athletes and Leftists such as Obama, the Clintons, Chris Wallace, Adam Schiff, Nancy Pelosi, George Soros. As long as this hatred and animosity continues, it verifies that Trump is on the right track.

But, I can't stop here. I must go deeper to express what is in my spirit and on my heart and mind. In the early years of this ministry I was given many opportunities within churches to faithfully speak out against pornography, obscenity, and indecency; calling those with whom we had audience to "pursue holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." I began to sense that Christians were being desensitized - that most didn't even realize it – becoming conformed to this world (Romans 12:1,2) with hours of being "entertained" by godlessness, eroding their/our? spiritual consciences, they/we were being groomed - accepting lies for truth. We were becoming reprobate. Yet, all the while, people were nice, polite, but so few pushed back against the insidiousness of wickedness in movies, television programs, magazines, education. The church shied away from calling believers to rise up and be holy; to guard their heart; that godless things were dangerously having their way on cell phones and computers; that homosexuality was knocking at our societal door and that the church needed to oppose it. But the church remained ever silent. And life went on. Making disciples – what's that? Spending time with God individually and having family devotions had become antiquated and with that loss, our time and messaging was replaced with whatever ... (fill in the blank). That nice veneer that all was well with America. "Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof" – that verse became increasingly fitting.

But while we conservatives have been lulled to sleep, the enemy has been on the move. What enemy am I referencing? The enemy of our souls – Satan. Generation after generation slipped spiritually in our households and churches – failing to love the Word, to teach the Word, to make disciples. Spiritual discernment eroded. "They failed to teach the difference between the holy and the profane." [Ezekiel 44:23]

The undiscerning populace elected and re-elected Bill Clinton even after he lied to the American people. He was impeached (remember, "I did not have sex with that woman"). Along with Bill Clinton, we have Hillary Clinton and all the evil they have brought to America. Their anti-God, anti-Constitution, anti-America agenda has brought great destruction. Their collusion with communist Russia and China has vaulted communist regimes into nuclear adversaries via their untold number of quid pro quo. This is but one indication of where the American public is in regard to discernment.

In addition to the enemy of our souls, there are enemies within and without our nation, seeking its destruction or radical transformation into a Marxist state. China was a third world power just a few short years ago. Barack Obama: Need I say more. The communists, the Muslim Brotherhood, the Tlaibs, the Omars, and AOCs are not knocking at our door, they are within our gates. (Note BLM, Antifa). Their influence is deep within our government: the FBI, CIA, State Department, the Pentagon, our universities, our professional teams, Hollywood, our federal government.

Kevin Freeman, author, speaker, broadcaster of Economic War Room and broadcaster on Blaze TV and committed Christian stated it this way: Deep State bureaucracy, public education, and chunks of Wall Street. They intend to leverage that power in a color revolution combined with what they hope will be one last election victory to take total control. They are working in common cause with the Chinese Communist Party (which has been supporting the social unrest), global Marxists, George Soros' Open Society elements, and radical Islamists. They all want to see a radical re-making of what we know is the greatest nation on earth.

But, Trump IS on the right track AND he is hated, opposed, and innumerable enemies surround him from within and without, sharing in a desire to destroy his presidency and our Constitutional Republic.

As I move toward closing, I return to the matter of reprobation. Reprobation, in Christian theology, is a doctrine found in many passages of scripture such as Romans 1:20-28, Proverbs 1:23-33, John 12:37-41, Hebrews 6:4-8 etc. which teaches that a person can reject the gospel to a point where God turns them over to their sin. This of course, includes the deadening of conscience in individuals. Has America become a reprobate nation? Years ago, when Dr. James Dobson still headed Focus on the Family, he shared a message given by John MacArthur during that year's National Day of Prayer. In his sobering message, MacArthur stated that he believed that God had taken His hand of protection off from America because of our sin. He cited a recent pattern of natural disasters that had befallen America.

Here's my comment: as American spiritual leaders, parents and grandparents lose their first love, it becomes clear little by little until it's not so little by little. As politicians, athletes, entertainers lose their love for the ideals this nation was founded on, we see athletes taking the knee, politicians voting unbiblically, Supreme Court justices voting for homosexual marriage, presidents and/or vice presidents making financial deals that benefit themselves and thereby gives away military secrets empowering the enemy (think Russia, China, Iran). City councils and mayors that defund the police jeopardizing the safety and security of their communities against the will of the people. Governors who operate outside of their constitutional authority imposing tyrannical authority over the people that elected them to represent them honorably –pursuing an agenda of control that enhances the narrative of a party as opposed to acting justly and legally. The media that embraces leftist ideology that undermines America and openly attack and lie day in and day out, all with a straight face, knowingly altering the facts and/or forcing the narrative to look away from what should be reported. Instead they protect and propagate their ideology, ignoring their responsibility to make the people they serve aware of all news in an unbiased way.

In a recent interview on Fox Business with Maria Bartiromo, former Deputy National Security Advisor K.T. McFarland gave just a small glimpse of the turmoil, chaos and sleaze that is ongoing on various fronts and puts on display sin's ugliness: the cover up, the collusion that includes the FBI, Joe Biden, Hunter Biden, and is only one little peek of the corruption that abounds.

K.T. McFarland: The FBI has had this laptop over a year what have they been doing with it? It's not just the pay to play scheme with China and other countries. What about the media (and social media platforms) as they decide what they can censor. They censor what they can see is a pretty legitimate story. This is something right out of the annals of Communist China. And here's why the pay to play scheme matters. Joe Biden refused to ever stand up to China. It would have been easy 20 years ago. 10 years ago. It would have been easy 6 years ago to stand up to China to demand equal trade agreements. It would have been easy to say stop stealing our intellectual property. Stop stealing our jobs. He never, never did. Why? Got to wonder – pay to play schemes. Chinese corruption: They don't pay the official. They pay the members of the family of the official ... and they are using the same scheme here with politicians; particularly the Bidens.

The Leftists et. al. are not going to stop no matter the results of the election, as Kamala Harris so readily admitted in a viral online video interview clip. The radical left has been plotting for years and they believe they are close to "victory," even if they ultimately lose the election. In fact, I have a document in my hand that discusses so-called war game scenarios that describe what things they might enact in such an eventuality. One of the supposed outcomes is what if Donald Trump is the clear winner. Here is what they have plotted:

The Biden Campaign began the game by encouraging three states with Democratic governors—North Carolina, Wisconsin, and Michigan—to ask for recounts. As the game developed, governors in two of the three (Wisconsin and Michigan) sent separate slates of electors to counter those sent by the state legislature.

* At the end of the first turn, the country was in the midst of a full-blown constitutional crisis characterized by: 1) Political chaos; 2) Widespread threats of violence, and sporadic actual violence in the streets; and 4) A hostile, dangerous, highly-partisan, and frequently unconstrained information and media environment.

* The Biden Campaign encouraged Western states, particularly California but also Oregon and Washington, and collectively known as "Cascadia," to secede from the Union unless Congressional Republicans agreed to a set of structural reforms to fix our democratic system to ensure majority rule. With advice from President Obama, the Biden Campaign submitted a proposal to 1) Give statehood to Washington, DC and Puerto Rico; 2) Divide California into five states to more accurately represent its population in the Senate; 3) Require Supreme Court justices to retire at 70; and 4) Eliminate the Electoral College, to ensure that the candidate who wins the popular vote becomes President.

* One of the most consequential moves was that Team Biden on January 6 provoked a breakdown in the joint session of Congress by getting the House of Representatives to agree to award the presidency to Biden...

Keep in mind that this is the plan in the case of a Clear Trump Win. What does the far left have in mind if Biden wins????

Election Hype or Hope

By Chris Johnson

Depending on when you received this newsletter and took the time to give it a read, we are likely either on the eve of the 2020 election or immediately in its wake... or hanging suspended as we wait for final counts that we can be confident will not be accurate.

No matter where and when you are as you read this, you might be feeling helpless. There's been a lot of hype regarding this election. Both sides, including ourselves, have called this the most important election of our lifetime. Either you've cast your vote and are hoping a majority of the nation agreed with you or you are preparing to. Either way, that one moment of action that we look ahead to and plan and strategize and pray for is past or almost past and all we can do is speculate what the implications of that choice might be.

There is much written in this newsletter about the two parties, their candidates, and what they stand for. In this space, I want to provide insight, or a reminder of an insight – that is non-partisan. If your candidate of choice loses, I hope you can draw peace from it, and if he wins, I hope you can pass it on to a friend who disagrees with you.

In the past few years we have seen our society move in an unsustainable direction: everything is politicized, there is no source for unfiltered information, and virtually everyone has a strong opinion. In this context, the presidential election fills our lives as we watch the race progress. We follow the issues and wonder how anyone could see it differently than we do; it seems so clear.

The funny thing is that that is true on both sides of the election. Don't take this as moral equivocation: one of those sides is wrong and I don't think it's mine; but we should be humbled by the fact that both sides are so utterly convinced they're the good guys. Human beings can fall for anything under the right circumstances.

I think it's worth examining ourselves in the context of this election. We've followed the news. We know each candidate's proclivities and intentions. We know, or can assume, the affect their policy decisions will have in our own lives. We've made predictions on what it will mean for the future of the country and we are likely either filled with hope or dread at the prospect of the next four years.

What does that say about where our hope lies?

If anything has been made clear in the past year, it's how much of life is utterly outside of the control of anyone who could ever run for president. We've spent months and mind-blowing amounts of money trying to contain a virus that just happened to pop up in an election year and then infect the president weeks before the election. In just the past month, the left's favorite Supreme Court seat is left vacant to be filled with the right's new favorite Supreme Court Justice. Who could have predicted these things?

Christians know that their timing was not accidental. God writes the best stories and He's still writing this one. This is why, in part, God gave us His Word. It is filled with impossible situations where all human hope is lost until He saves His people – the Israelites pinched between the Egyptian armies and the Red Sea, the Jews condemned to be murdered by their neighbors by the treachery of Haman, Israel frozen in fear of a gigantic warrior from Gath, the list goes on and on and on.

Christians don't need their candidate of choice in the White House to flourish; what we need is the Lord's favor. We've worked so hard to get our guy into this position of authority, it's easy to lose track of the fact that all authority in heaven and on earth has been given to Christ.

Whoever resides in the White House for the next four years is there because God put him there. Either way, we have our duties to see to in our homes, our churches, our communities, and yes - our nation.

We are not called to elect good presidents to change our culture, we are called to be the "salt and light" of the world ourselves.

As Dr. John Piper says, "Political life is for making much of Christ whether the world falls apart or holds together."

On November 4, keep the faith. Put your hope in the King of Kings. What would He have you to do?

Though the fig tree should not blossom, nor fruit be on the vines, the produce of the olive fail and the fields yield no food, the flock be cut off from the fold and there be no herd in the stalls, yet I will rejoice in the LORD; I will take joy in the God of my salvation. GOD, the Lord, is my strength; he makes my feet like the deer's; he makes me tread on my high places.

Hard Drive - Hard Truth! ... Hard Justice?

By Steve Huston

October surprise? More like October SHOCK! And although this is the biggest breaking news story to come along in a while, what do we hear from main stream media? CRICKETS...silence so loud that it's deafening! Even big tech giants are suppressing the story, betraying the truth of their position; they are not neutral and desire to keep truth from the American public. When the above do touch on Hunter Biden's laptop and the damning information that it contains, it's to spread disinformation meant to protect Washington's elite and one presidential candidate, ultimately to maneuver the election to the Left. It would be nice to see some justice brought to the doors of these propaganda moguls.

This is NOT the product of a Russian intelligence operation; regardless of what 50 former senior intelligence officials claim. This IS Hunter Biden's laptop. The signatures on the work order for data recovery and on his paternity suit match; it's nearly impossible to manufacture such evidence complete with timestamps and personal information; and the Bidens aren't denying it. That spells corroboration, not conspiracy.

Democrats and progressives project. They accused President Trump of selling out American interests to line his own pockets; when in actuality, that's what they did. The collusion was actually between Russian intelligence and the Hillary Clinton campaign and the Democratic National Committee. What about Hunter Biden and the $3.5 million wire transfer from the ex-wife of the former mayor of Moscow, who is connected to the Russian mafia?

It appears that Hunter "Bagman" Biden won't be holding the bag alone. According to an American Thinker article: "It's an open secret that Joe Biden managed to maneuver his family members into receiving huge financial benefits wherever Joe's po- litical power took him. Moreover, thanks to earlier revelations from Hunter's computer, we also have reason to believe that Biden himself came in for a cut from all the action. Biden apparently shaped U.S. foreign policy to feed money to Hunter, who, in turn, gave kickbacks to his father."

During the time that Joe Biden has been in politics, China has gone from a poor nation to a prosperous one through stolen intelligence and technology, and via quid pro quos of the Clinton and Obama administrations. Just how much of our enemy's gain can be laid at the feet of Biden remains to be seen. What influence has this money from Russia, Ukraine, and China purchased with Joe Biden when he was vice-president? What influence will they have purchased if he were elected president? The American people deserve to know and need to see justice done.

The FBI has had this laptop for seven months; but where's the justice? CRICKETS...more deafening silence. According to Lawenforcementtoday.com the "Computer repairman who exposed Biden emails claims that the FBI told him to stay quiet about it."

Bold truth-teller, Rudy Giuliani, has given hard drive data containing numerous pictures of underage girls to Delaware State Police due to concerns of child endangerment and sexual exploitation of minors, including text messages between Hunter Biden and his father, Joe Biden, discussing a sexual relationship with an unnamed 14 year-old girl. Some of the pictures portrayed both Hunter and the minors in the same photo. Giuliani, in a NEWSMAX TV interview, stated: "If you were to look at the photographs on this hard drive and didn't report it to the police — well, if you were a law enforcement officer, you'd be guilty of a felony. If you were just a normal citizen, you'd be a horrible human being. There are numerous pictures here of girls that are being, I mean, they shouldn't be there.... If the Delaware State Police don't do anything about this, it would be really a tragic thing." He also refers to the mainstream media as "an iron curtain of censorship" regarding this scandal.

Why is it that those same media and big tech moguls who accused the Trump administration of caging children (projection again – it was the Obama/Biden administration) have nothing to say about Hunter Biden's "child endangerment"? Where is the faux outrage regarding "sexual exploitation" and potential human trafficking? One would think that the media could at least muster up enough concern and sympathy for these children put in these abusive situations; but no, still CRICKETS!

Do you think "faux outrage" goes too far? When there's "an iron curtain of censorship" regarding this very real and extremely disturbing data, what would you call it? When CNN is more upset that President Trump didn't "disavow QAnon in its entirety" for propagating the "conspiracy theory" that elites in Washington DC and Hollywood are somehow involved in the trafficking of children for sex than the fact that the President seemed grateful that QAnon and its followers are "very much against pedophilia," what would you say?

With that in mind, one might wonder if there's any correlation between Department of Homeland Security's Acting Secretary Chad Wolf recently holding a 30 minute press conference for the opening of the DHS Center for Countering Human Trafficking and the fact that only three people from the press showed up. At the end of his remarks he opened the floor to questions from the media; and guess what? That's right, CRICKETS! Not a single question was asked about what is commonly referred to as modern day slavery. The national media had no interest in President Trump's efforts to counter the sexual exploitation of children—just as they seem to have no interest in Hunter's laptop.

This article and the injustices contained herein isn't about Republican or Democrat; it's about lawlessness and righteousness. We long for, expect, and need justice. We've often been disappointed; but let us never forget this: Judgment will always come in God's time.

No Strings on Me

By Chris Johnson

In the first Avenger’s film, Age of Ultron, an artificial intelligence has gained sentience and threatens humanity. Ultron, in the creepy/sophisticated voice of James Spader, proclaims, “I had strings, but now I’m free. There are no strings on me.”

I was reminded of this scene as the story of Big Tech’s – particularly Facebook and Twitter – blacklisting of the New York Post developed.

On October 14, the paper reported that it had been entrusted with the contents of a hard drive from one of Joe Biden’s son’s – Hunter’s – laptop which had been abandoned at a computer repair shop in Delaware several years ago. The Post story included emails from Hunter’s account alluding to corruption involving Joe Biden and the many foreign companies the younger Biden was entangled with in his business dealings.

The New York Post of course shared this story to Twitter and Facebook where it began to be shared by individuals. And that’s when Big Tech decided it was time to shake off the strings.

Before the story had been debunked – or even attempted at debunking – Facebook limited its reach and Twitter outright blocked it. It could not be shared at all on Twitter, and The New York Post - a well established and respected paper –was locked out of their account until the story was deleted, which they refused to do. At the time of this writing, over a week later, they are still locked out of their account, in spite of a slow drip of evidence that has corroborated their report, including personal testimony from a former business partner of Hunter’s. Twitter went so far as to block the accounts of the White House Press Secretary, the House GOP, and individual members of Congress who had different opinions from Twitter as to the veracity of the report.

Twitter appealed to a policy set in 2018, directing that they would not allow hacked, private information to be shared on their platform. Of course, that wasn’t an issue when someone slipped the New York Times President Trump’s tax returns earlier this year – that story was not only widely shared but was allowed in the curated ‘trending’ section on the page.

In fact, PJMedia.com reports that Trump has been censored more than 60 times between Twitter and Facebook, while Biden’s exaggerations, inaccuracies, and lies have been left alone.

In our digital age, these platforms are the public square. The systematic squelching of one side of every argument towards the preferred position of these tech companies is an influence operation against the American people’s right to make their own decisions. When social media squashes stories it doesn’t like and traditional media refuses to report on those stories because they don’t like it either, Americans are left powerless to inform themselves.

Open Secrets reports that in the 2020 election cycle, 99% of donations from Twitter employees went to Democrats, and 19% of that went to Joe Biden. Meanwhile almost 92% of Facebook employee’s political donations also went to Democrats, with 25% of them going to Biden. Google was also revealed to be staffed with radical leftists after employee James Damore was fired for holding and defending conservative views in an internal memo to other employees in 2018.

As Senator Ted Cruz told Fox News, “... whether or not you agree with Big Tech politics, who in their right mind would want a handful of Silicon Valley billionaires, American oligarchs, having total monopoly control over who's allowed to speak, what media is allowed to report, what stories you're allowed to write and who's allowed to read it? It is dangerous and it's a real threat to our freedoms.”

So what can be done about the obvious bias held by these powerful, massive, and uniquely influential companies?

As of Thursday, October 22, Senate Republicans have voted to subpoena the CEOs of Facebook and Twitter, Mark Zuckerberg and Jack Dorsey, to answer questions regarding their treatment of this report. This appears to be in addition to a scheduled hearing with the same individuals on October 28 regarding bias and their immunity from Section 230 of the Communications Decency Act which releases them from liability from what it’s users publish on their websites, but prohibits them from censoring viewpoints – at least in theory.

Facebook, Twitter, Apple, and Google were also the subjects of a report to the House Judiciary Committee early in October which recommended that these companies be treated as monopolies. The report called for changes to antitrust laws which would allow “Big Tech” companies to be broken up and make way for smaller competitors.

So these companies have their obstacles to overcome. But do Republican lawmakers have the motivation to hold them accountable? In the days following the censorship of the Biden story they certainly talked a big game, but as we’ve become only too aware, Republican lawmakers are better at outraged soundbites than they are at acting on them.

As their constituents, we need to stick their nose in this. Social and traditional media together have the capability of outright silencing conservative, and more importantly, Christian thought. This needs to be a legislative priority for Republicans.

Contact your U.S. Representative and U.S. Senators and urge them to remove Section 230 immunity for social media platforms that engage in stifling conservative speech. Contact them by calling the U.S. Capitol switchboard at 202-224-3121.

What's Past is Prologue

By Lisa Van Houten

“What’s past is prologue.” It’s a line from Shakespeare’s The Tempest, which has come to mean that history is just a preview of what’s to come. Or, as we might say in modern day vernacular, “We ain’t seen nothin’ yet.”

Remember when Barack Obama derisively described conservatives and Christians as being “bitter, clinging to guns and religion”? A few years later we were labeled as “deplorables” by Hillary Clinton and “dregs of society” by Biden. With each election cycle the animosity towards people of faith increases. It’s a Marxist tactic – cause division based on one’s religion, race, or economic standing. It’s also an example of Jesus’ words in John 3:20 – “everyone who does wicked things hates the light ...”

In 2020, the hate-filled rhetoric has hit a fever pitch. Leftists increasingly use dehumanizing language to target conservatives and Christians, giving justification for words to turn into actual attacks. Dick Costolo, former Twitter CEO, threw gasoline on the cultural fire when he recently tweeted that capitalists should be “the first people lined up against the wall and shot in the revolution. I’ll happily provide video commentary.” Did Twitter remove this incendiary post? While Twitter frequently removes conservative posts simply because they don’t like the message, a tweet from a Leftist inciting revolution and murder, well, Twitter has no problem with that as long as it’s directed toward conservatives.

Now some on the Left are actually suggesting a “Truth and Reconciliation Commission” where Trump administration officials would be hauled in front of this commission to be “re-educated,” forced to apologize to the nation, or even prosecuted. Robert Reich, former Labor Secretary under Bill Clinton stated: “When this nightmare is over, we need a Truth and Reconciliation Commission. It would erase Trump’s lies, comfort those who have been harmed by his hatefulness, and name every official, politician, executive, and media mogul whose greed and cowardice enabled this catastrophe.” This is truly Orwellian.

Former ESPN analyst turned political commentator, Keith Olbermann, took it a step further with his recent online rant: “... the terrorist Trump must be defeated, must be destroyed, ... and he and his enablers and his supporters and his collaborators and the Mike Lees and the William Barrs and the Sean Hannitys and the Mike Pences and the Rudy Giuliani and the Kyle Rittenhouses and the Amy Coney Barretts must be prosecuted and convicted and removed from our society ... [T]he fight is not just to win an election but to win it by enough to chase, at least for the moment, Trump and the maggots off the stage ... Remember it, ... the fight does not end on November 3rd but in many ways will only begin that day.” Prosecuted and removed from society? It would be easy to dismiss this as hyperbole, if we hadn’t seen the efforts in recent years targeting the free speech of conservatives, physically attacking people simply for wearing a Trump MAGA hat, and the blatant undermining of the free exercise of religious liberty.

However, Olbermann said one thing with which I agree. The fight will not end on November 3. If Trump is re-elected, the Left will continue their rabid efforts to attack his presidency. But if Biden is elected, the steamrolling of the Constitution and the implementation of their Marxist/socialist agenda will only begin.

And who will be their first targets? I believe it will be Christians. For it is the Church – the true Church – that is the last institution that has not bowed to their godless, socialist agenda. They’ve infiltrated the schools and universities, corporate America, and even much of the military leadership. They won’t line us up to be shot (yet), but they will seek to silence us and drive our influence from society. That’s already occurring. If the first freedom (religious liberty) falls, the rest of our freedoms protected by the Constitution will fall like dominoes. Freedom of speech, the press, peaceful assembly – we’ve already seen efforts to undermined these rights, especially when it comes to conservatives.

During the pandemic we continue to see overt hostility to churches. It has set a precedent and paved the way for further government control of our churches. While thousands of Leftists have swarmed city streets in so-called “peaceful” protests with approval from government officials, in April, David Benham was arrested for peacefully praying along with a handful of others on a public sidewalk in front of an abortion clinic. And the list is endless of conservative news outlets being censored by Twitter, Facebook, YouTube, and Google. What’s past is prologue. If this is happening now, how much more will it ratchet up under a Biden-Harris administration as they pack the Supreme Court, leaving no restraints to hold them back?

What else is at risk? With Amy Coney Barrett’s nomination to the Supreme Court, Joe Biden has vowed to push legislation making abortion the law of the land, obliterating decades of pro-life advancements to restrict abortion. Biden also pledged to make passage of the “Equality Act” a priority, giving sexual orientation and gender identity specially protected civil rights.

Under President Trump, the Department of Justice has pushed back against Leftist attempts to undermine freedom. For example, Attorney General William Barr has gone after Democrat governors for restrictions placed on churches and the DOJ has defended the religious liberty of individuals in the workplace. Under a Biden-Harris administration, the pushback would be in the opposite direction – targeting Christians, not defending them.

While I fervently pray for God’s mercy in this election and that these plots of evildoers to radically transform America will be foiled, I also know that it could be God’s will to bring His Church through the refining fire of persecution. If that is the case, may we, by His Grace, shine the light of Christ even more brightly.

Transition of Power

By Steve Huston

We are days away from what might be termed the most contested, and consequential, Presidential election in modern American history. We will either re-elect an "America first" President who has sacrificed personal wealth, safety, and reputation for the sake of America, her Constitution, and her citizenry or we will hand over the reins of this great nation to a candidate who has unethically grown his own personal wealth at America's expense—leaving us vulnerable to our enemies abroad, desires to destroy our Constitutional Republic as we know it, and to enslave us with tyrannical bonds that would not soon be broken!

The looming question that comes from the Left and the media, which President Trump is constantly asked, is "Will you commit to a peaceful transition of power?"

Where does such a question come from? To start with, one must remember that the Left either signals what they are doing or what they plan to do through baseless accusation. Their propaganda arm (mainstream media) regurgitates it, and without thinking, others fall lockstep into place.

Charles "Sam" Faddis, former CIA Ops officer, describes how an attempt to stop the peaceful transition of presidential power in 2016 in an October 11, 2020 article entitled "Exclusive: Coup Plotters Considered Never Allowing Trump To Be Inaugurated." The article, based on his interview with a former senior Department of Defense official from the Pentagon, can be read in its entirety at www.andmagazine.com.

Roughly one week after Donald Trump had been lawfully elected by the people of the United States of America, this official received a phone call through official channels, informing him that he had been named to be part of a committee whose purpose was to focus on the storyline and the timeline of the Russian-collusion narrative. One of the specific tasks of this committee was to look at delaying, not proceeding with, the inauguration of Donald Trump, to begin planning for the possibility of not transferring power to the president elect.

"At some point, this idea appears to have been dropped in favor of proceeding with the strategy of creating an impeachment narrative, but for months apparently there was significant discussion of the possibility of simply not handing over the Presidency to Donald Trump." (AND Magazine)

Sam Faddis, in a recent interview with Frank Gaffney said, "I have zero evidence that anybody's doing anything about it and this is maybe the most terrifying aspect of the environment we now live in. Which is, you watch what is happening with the Hunter Biden emails and the increasing evidence not just that Hunter was getting paid but that money was in all likelihood going into Joe Biden's pockets; and yet, much of the media is just, 'Nothing to see here.' Just complete deafening silence, just killing it by not addressing it."

What Sam draws from these things should cause us to sit up, take notice, and get on our knees pleading for mercy from almighty God. In his article he states, "When we have reached the point where an outgoing President and his subordinates are seriously planning not to hand over power to the President-Elect, we are standing on the precipice. This is no longer about partisan politics. This is about the very real possibility of losing our democracy."

The Left's transition of power was anything but peaceful. They have fought, lied, unethically and unlawfully undermined this president and the will of the people.

Obviously the Left miscalculated during the last election; they don't intend to make that same mistake this time. We've already seen troubling news regarding voting practices. For example: "It is a small thing for California to come up with an extra 1-2 million votes. They do that with voter harvesting, or lax laws on non-citizen voting, or simply looking the other way on outright fraud. Judicial Watch uncovered 'millions' of extra registrants on voting rolls, most in California. Even after purging the rolls in response to court order, San Diego County still had 117% registration, meaning 'they have more voter registrations than citizens living there and old enough to vote.' According to Judicial Watch, there are 378 counties with 2.5 million registrations beyond the 100% of eligible citizens mark. Not surprisingly, these are primarily Democrat-controlled states. Across the United States, an average American registration rate is about 66.9%, so over 100% anywhere should be a massive red flag." (Kevin Freeman's blog)

As I wrote two years ago, "We are no longer one America with two different ways of doing things. We are now two different Americas with two differing sets of values, two antithetical systems of government, two polarized destinations, and two diametrically opposed views of the citizens of this 'United' States of America.

"...It's a difference between the Constitutional Republic that our forefathers handed over to their people and a democratic socialism which will quickly slide into communism, destroying 'this last and greatest bastion of freedom.'

"We have had a God-given reprieve under President Trump, but make no mistake; this is the battle that lies before us in November. It is a battle of historical importance; the future of our nation is at stake. The enemy fighting 'Constitutional America' never sleeps. When they win they march steadily along; when they lose they push forward as they are able. They take the war seriously, fighting for keeps."

Win or lose, the Left will be a threat and continue to attack the Constitution and our freedoms through the Transition Integrity Project (TIP). Look it up, you really need to read it!

Whatever happens in the days that follow we must remember one very important thing. God is sovereign and He is the One who transfers power, regardless the machinations of men.
